Gallows Humour

• As constant viewers of CBC programs we wish to express our disappointment and disapproval of Quest (Gallows Humour, Sunday, March 17, CBC-TV). Although we consider ourselves tolerant, broad-minded and possessing a normal sense of humour, the Quest presentation was sordid, debasing and under no circumstances could it be suggested for family viewing.

All this, too, on a Sunday evening, at an hour when in most households all members of the family are gathered at the television.

—Mr. and Mrs. K.M.M., Winnipeg.

• I protest very strongly against the showing of such plays as Gallows Humour. In discussing the show last night with a group of citizens there was nothing but strong condemnation of the showing. . . . Have you run short of clean, wholesome material? Is there no place for laughter, courage, or struggle in the wholesomeness of life? These are the questions that the group thought you should ask your staff before putting on any more degrading material. A story of criminals and their reactions does not necessarily make a play worthy by good acting. Why do you have to go to the jails and bring out murderers and prostitutes for our entertainment? For the sake of our youth and for the good people generally I trust you will seriously consider improving the moral standards of your productions.

—H.A., Carman, Man.

Better Hours for Saskatchewan

• Last summer I read in the local newspaper that beginning in November, the Regina area would receive the CBC-TV network programs one hour earlier than previously. It is now spring and we are still receiving these programs at the same hour. . . . Nearly all the worthwhile network programs (Close-Up, Quest, Festival, Inquiry, The Lively Arts, News, Explorations and CBC-TV News) are received here after 11:00 p.m.

I understand that network programs for Saskatchewan are relayed from Calgary. We are, however, in the same time zone as Winnipeg which relays the programs two hours earlier than Calgary. Why couldn't it be arranged for Regina to receive its network programs from Winnipeg? I think the CBC is doing an excellent job in providing these stimulating productions, but it seems a shame to put them on at such a late hour that they cannot be appreciated by so many who would normally be very interested in them.

—M.A.L., Regina.

• Why do we have to wait until 12 o'clock midnight for CBC-TV News when we are in the central time zone? Surely this can be adjusted so that we can get this news at the same time as Winnipeg and Brandon and not have to wait for it to be relayed from Calgary.

—C.G.L., Yorkton, Sask.

Plans were announced early last summer to install additional videotape recording machines in Winnipeg for the purpose of relaying network programs on a one-hour delay basis to television stations in Manitoba and Saskatchewan. However, this project, along with many others, had to be postponed when the CBC's capital funds were cut back as part of general economy measures instituted a few weeks later. We are going ahead in the present fiscal year with the original project and it is likely that the one-hour delay for the Central Time network will start next October, a year later than originally hoped for.

Fitting a network schedule into the operations of the various privately-owned affiliated stations is a very complicated matter. Major time changes cannot be undertaken at short notice and in mid-season. For this reason we are aiming now for time adjustments to be made at the beginning of the next fall season, causing least disruption to individual station commitments.

Delightful Music

• Your Sunday night half-hour of music and song (The Music of Eric Wild, March 17 and 24, CBWT) was most delightful. Special praise must be given to Florence Faiers, a lovely voice and pleasant appearance always. I hope we will see more of her.

—J.M., Winnipeg.

CBC TIMES

Youth Concert—Unexcelled

• One of the very finest television programs I have ever seen was the Youth Concert (Sunday, March 10, CBC-TV; March 17 in Flin Flon and The Pas). Everything about it was excellent, from the commentator to the elegant chamber group and its alert and sensitive conductor.

But above all, the young artists! What wonderful talent and ability each of them displayed. It hardly seemed possible that the standard set by the first two performers could be maintained but there was no let-down and the marvellous performance of the little Korean girl brought the Youth Concert to a most satisfying conclusion.

The CBC is to be warmly congratulated on producing such an admirable program. I do not believe that it could have been excelled and indeed hope to be on hand for the next and any similar programs.

—J.S., Flin Flon, Man.

Galileo

• Congratulations on your Festival production of Galileo (Monday, March 25, CBC-TV). I fully intended to work at something else during this period but was held spellbound for an hour and a half. There are perhaps adjectives to describe the play, acting and production, but I cannot find them. I can only plead for more of the same.

You had a program which examined reasons for or against Canada joining the United States (Document, March 21, CBC-TV). The CBC should certainly rank high as a reason for not doing so. Thank heaven you can produce shows such as Festival and Quest without meddling from sponsors and advertising agencies.

—C.M.S., Saskatoon.

One of the year's most outstanding television presentations will be seen Monday night when CBC-TV's Festival presents Verdi's Othello, sung in English. Because of the length of the presentation, Festival starts an hour earlier than usual in all sections of the country. (See feature, page five.)

TWO OUTSTANDING artists in Winnipeg's musical life are linked to a performance Sunday, April 21 at 4:45 p.m. on CBC Radio's Song Recital. They are English composer Bernard Naylor, now a Winnipeg resident, and soprano Phyllis Thomson, winner of the Metropolitan Opera auditions in Winnipeg last February.

Accompanied by her husband, Stewart, on the piano, Phyllis Thomson sings Presences, a song cycle by Naylor, in its first broadcast performance.

"The cycle takes its name from the title of the third song," says the composer, "because all the poems have to do with presences of one sort or another, and in the last song there is a reference to the third song." The five songs are settings of poems of Marg Webb. The titles are The Secret Joy, Fairy-led, Presences, The Ancient Gods and The Little Hill.

COULD IT BE that 'teenage music tastes are taking a "serious" turn? Donald Harris, beaming 14-year-old Edmonton junior high school student pictured below, right, was awarded a cash scholarship as grand champion of CBXT Channel 5's recently completed Junior Highlights talent series. Making the presentation is program host Jim Mitchell. The young trumpeter's selection as his solo for the final show?—Haydn's Trumpet Concerto.

A NEW PIPE ORGAN at St. Aidan's Anglican Church in Winnipeg is being dedicated this month, and to mark the occasion CBC Radio will present a special concert on the instrument, on Thursday, April 25 at 10:05 p.m. Organist will be Hugh Bancroft, master of music at All Saints' Cathedral in Edmonton, and formerly an organist in Winnipeg. Tom Taylor is producer of the special concert.

Mr. Bancroft has held musical posts in St. Matthew's Anglican and All Saints in Winnipeg.

THE ESTABLISHMENT

QUEST Sunday on CBC-TV presents a satire that has had crowds fighting for admission in London

LATE IN 1961, when The Establishment opened in London's Soho district, so many customers tried to push into the club for the first-night performance that one of London's leading critics, who arrived in what he thought was plenty of time, had to be passed inside over the heads of the crowd.

The excitement over this savagely satiric show hasn't subsided. Bishops and M.P.s are still battling for the best tables; a duchess has been thrown out of the club; the cast has been assaulted by members of a pacifist organization; and one customer was heard to remark: "I didn't drive my wife 30 miles to hear that word." He didn't reveal the word, and the cast can't imagine to what he was referring.

During one performance, Randolph Churchill popped on stage to deliver an impromptu sketch on journalism and the nature of death. But the regular entertainment is provided by a resident cast which, for the first year, included John Bird, Eleanor Bron, John Fortune, Jeremy Geidt, and Carole Simpson. Last October they took the show to Chicago with great success, leaving another cast to continue the performances at the club in Soho. In December the American tour moved on to Washington, and then on January 23 opened at the Strollers Club in New York, where the show is still attracting capacity crowds. Recently the cast flew to Toronto to video-

OTHELLO

Verdi's Opera
Sung in English
on Festival

GIUSEPPE VERDI'S operatic version of Shakespeare's tragedy, Othello, will be the Festival presentation on CBC-TV, Monday night, April 22. The 2¼-hour telecast, produced and directed by Franz Kraemer, will feature tenor Richard Cassilly in the title role, with soprano Ilona Kombrink as Desdemona, and baritone Louis Quilico as Iago. Ernesto Barbini will be musical director, conducting the orchestra and 54-voice chorus.

The opera will be sung in English, using a translation by Eric Crozier of Arrigo Boito's original libretto.

Others in the cast are John McCollum as Cassio, Nasco Petroff as Roderigo, Jan Rubes as Lodovico, Elsie Sawchuk as Emilia, Victor Braun as Montano, and William Copeland as a herald. Sets are by Trevor Williams, and costumes were designed by Suzanne Mess. Mario Bernardi acted as vocal coach for the production.

The performance was videotaped at CBC-TV's Toronto studios some months ago, after four weeks of intensive rehearsals. Due to the scope of the production, involving dozens of chorus members and extras as well as the principals, the first act was videotaped separately, because the set—a quay outside Othello's palace on the island of Cyprus—took up all the available space in CBC Toronto's huge Studio Seven. The remaining three acts, set inside the palace and courtyard, were videotaped in sequence on one day.

Verdi's Othello, like the Shakespearean tragedy upon which it is based, tells the dramatic story of the powerful Moor, commander of the Venetian fleet, whose love for his bride, Desdemona, is destroyed by the villainous Iago, one of Othello's lieutenants.

In the first act, as Othello returns in triumph from a successful naval battle, Iago sows the seeds of his ultimate destruction. Jealous of the greater favour shown by Othello for another of his lieutenants, Cassio, Iago provokes Cassio into a duel with Roderigo, an incident that results in Cassio's demotion. As the drama unfolds, Iago leads Othello to believe that a love affair is going on between Cassio and Desdemona. Suspicion grows in the Moor's mind when his wife, at Iago's suggestion, pleads with her husband to reinstate Cassio's former rank. Iago further

THOMAS HARDY

A personal portrait of the last of the Victorian literary figures, gleaned
from his journals and letters by
Arnold Edinborough

CBC
Wednesday Night
April 24th
at 10:30 p.m.

Arnold Edinborough

ON CBC Wednesday Night at 10:30 p.m. on radio, Arnold Edinborough, assistant professor of English at the University of British Columbia and former editor of Saturday Night, will present a portrait of Thomas Hardy, English novelist, poet and short story writer, as revealed in his journals and letters.

Although Hardy (1840-1928) is considered the last of the great Victorian men of letters, his novels and poetry are far from a lingering vestige of another age. In Tess of the D'Urbervilles, Jude the Obscure, and other novels, he wrote with unrelenting realism, but with a harsh, sometimes pitiless detachment which would have made him the darling of the literary societies if he had been living today. His prime focus was on women, whom he considered the most disturbing influence in life. His poetry has a gnarled, rustic quality like roots dug up from the Wessex clay where he was raised. He had a Shakespearean love of people and deep compassion for them—even for the critics who called his novels lurid, immoral and coarse, who labelled him a Socialist, an atheist and various kinds of corrupting influence.

Some insisted that his novels were autobiographical. They weren't. But Hardy kept private accounts—acutely observant, wickedly amusing—of his impressions of people and things. He opined that Walter Pater's manner "is that of one carrying weighty ideas without spilling them." "Henry James has a ponderously warm manner of saying nothing in infinite sentences." He recalled a dinner party when, sitting next to Lady Camperdown, he "could not get rid of the feeling that I was close to a great naval engagement."

Unfortunately Hardy destroyed many of his private papers and journals, probably intending that the public should learn about him only what he intended they should know. He even wrote most of his own autobiography, which appeared after his death, ostensibly written by his second wife. He had a countryman's habit of keeping himself to himself. St. John Irvine once recalled that Hardy was the most private-minded person he had known. Hardy was good company with a small group, and at his best alone with a friend.

His small stature, delicate features, and diffidence often deceived people into thinking him insignificant. But he was physically tough, and had tremendous dignity which, with his shrewd, penetrating blue gaze and masterful nose skewed a little off-centre, made him far more anonymous.

He didn't fit into modern conceptions of what a poet should look like. Dressed in a Norfolk jacket and knickerbockers and pedalling along a country lane, he could easily have been mistaken for a well-to-do corn merchant or a retired solicitor, with wisps of fading, sandy hair hanging over the back of his collar, and quizzical eyebrows pushing furrows into his bald head.

There was no insolence in his nature. Someone once remarked that a meeting with Hardy was comforting to self-esteem. He had a remarkable gift for getting along with young people. Trivial things interested and amused him, and often held more significance for him than could be grasped by some of his most brilliant friends. He could be quite happy talking about the habits of squirrels or the latest iniquity of the weather with crusty old rural neighbours. But he left his more intellectual visitors with the feeling that they had been in the presence of someone incredibly sage and innocent, warm and sensitive, disillusioned, perhaps, but not bitter.

One of the nicest things about Hardy was that even when he was an old man in his eighties, regarded as one of the greatest novelists and poets of his age, he never assumed that an editor would be overjoyed to publish anything he wrote. He always enclosed a stamped, self-addressed envelope when he sent a poem to a prospective publisher, and even offered to alter the poem to suit.

... When Romance Bloomed and KNIGHTHOOD was In Flower

PLAYDATE PRESENTS The Jo Stafford Show on CBC Television Thursday night, April 25. Jo looks back to the days of courtly romance, when knighthood was in flower. Her guests are actor Peter Lawford, who appears as a medieval knight in full armour ("highly uncomfortable," he says); and British comedians Benny Hill and Kenneth Connor.

One of the highlights of the program is Jo's singing of Greensleeves. The sequence was filmed in historic Warwick Castle. Set in its own park, it is one of England's most romantic private residences, looking down on gardens and sweeping swards, one of which is planted with blackish, humpy trees which, from a distance, look like crows marshalled on the grass in battle formation. Other songs in the show include Drink To Me Only, Thou Swell, When Knighthood Was in Flower, and Friendship.

Peter Lawford, who is married to President Kennedy's sister, is London born, the son of Lieutenant General and Lady Lawford. He made his film début at seven in Old Bill. Then, with his much-travelled parents, he lived in Paris, Monte Carlo, Nice, Rome, Spain, Portugal, Australia, Honolulu, Tahiti, India, Panama and many other places.

When the family visited Hollywood he won the role of an English boy in The Boy From Bernado's. After the picture was finished the Lawfords travelled again, and were in Florida when the Second World War broke out. Because their funds were frozen, Peter went to work as a parking-lot attendant at an exclusive hotel where the family had recently stayed. When he had saved enough money, he returned to Hollywood. He worked as a movie usher until he was offered a small role in the film version of Mrs. Miniver. That led to many more films, including A Yank at Eton, The White Cliffs of Dover, Mrs. Parkington, and The Picture of Dorian Gray. He has also made many TV programs in The Thin Man series.

Moon-faced Benny Hill, one of Britain's most successful comedians, says he likes to "keep an eye on people and keep my ears open. Half-an-hour in a bar, on a bus or an underground train provides me with enough material for a whole show." Once he was making up in his dressing-room at a provincial theatre when he overheard a couple talking in the alleyway outside. He pricked up his ears immediately. The man was pleading for a kiss. The girl was reluctant, but relented at last. Then, after a brief silence she said: "Well, there you are—and what good has that done you?" Benny used the scene on television the next day.

His father worked in a circus. Benny left school early to work in a chain store. In his spare time he entertained at charity concerts and workingmen's clubs. When he found he was making more money at that than at the store, he handed in his notice and headed for London. He was just beginning to get a few "breaks" when the Second World War began, and Benny spent the next few years in the army. He had a surfeit of confidence because a fortuneteller (Please turn to page 9)

World of Sport

Baseball Game of the Week. Dizzy Dean and Pee Wee Reese report from Connie Mack Stadium, Philadelphia, as the Philadelphia Phillies play the St. Louis Cardinals.

CBC Championship Bowling

Fred Sgambati reports live coverage of the Dominion Junior Five Pin finals from O'Connor Bowl, Toronto.

CBXT—Hi Teens

Teenage singing star Yvette Kramps and host Mike Winlaw presents a show for Edmonton teenagers. In addition to the regular segments on news, sports and interviews with visiting celebrities, the panel discusses the opportunities for a career in medicine with Dr. Lionel E. McLeod. Producer, Don McRae.

Kingfisher Cove

Pat Napier is host for music, song and conversation set in Pat's bachelor lodge on a mythical cove in the Maritimes. Each week friends drop in to talk about music and the arts.

Bugs Bunny

Omni-Puss. Bugs gives an illustrated lecture on cats. His dissertation includes Sylvester and Sylvester Jr. in a museum adventure, and Pepe Le Pew in one of his romantic adventures.

Countrytime

The Food Dollar. A discussion on who gets the food dollar and what exactly is the farmer's share.

Gardener Stan Westaway shows how to prepare and seed the lawn.

Alberta Game Farm

Host Al Oeming features members of the sheep and goat families including the native rocky mountain goats and big horn sheep, and exotic types such as the barbary sheep, Himalayan tahr and moufflan sheep.

The Beverly Hillbillies

An international playboy who has been everywhere and done everything, receives a surprise when he is entertained country style by the Clampetts. Guest star is Jim Backus.

Red River Jamboree

Songs, stories and dances about the old and rugged Canadian west. Featuring Stu Phillips as singing host. Producer, Ernie Mutimer.

She Loves the Love I Give Her.....Stu
I Know Where I'm Going.....Peggy
Kisses Sweeter Than Wine.....Altones

With blue-eyed, blue-jeaned charm, Donna Douglas (above) convinces guest star, Jim Backus, that the Clampetts have added a new attraction to Beverly Hills.

Cimarron.....Orchestra
Won't You Ride in My Little
Red Wagon.....Group

Great Movies

(Note: this program may be preempted by the Stanley Cup playoffs.) Angels In The Outfield. A woman reporter tries to get a story on what's wrong with the Pirates baseball team—from the woman's angle. She soon runs afoul of the team's raucous, tyrannical manager.

Starring Paul Douglas, Janet Leigh and Keenan Wynn.

Juliette

Juliette's special guest is organist-singer Jackie Davis from the U.S.

CBWT—Thriller

Have Late Date. When a man discovers that his brother has killed his unfaithful wife in a fit of rage, he takes command of the situation and tries to dispose of the wife's body.

JO STAFFORD

had informed him that he was a born leader of men. However, he ended his war service the way he had begun it—as a private. But he had had considerable experience as an entertainer with the Stars in Battledress unit, which served him well when he returned to concert entertaining after the war. He hit the headlines when the War Office objected to a joke he had told on the air. Benny denied that it was improper and the BBC backed him up. Overnight everyone had heard of Benny, and soon after that he had his own radio show, followed by West End stage shows and films.

Diminutive, sad-faced Kenneth Connor has a Chaplinesque quality that is familiar to Canadians who have seen him in the zany Carry On films. Ken has an impish sense of humour. On the movie set or in the TV or radio studio he keeps up a running fire of quips. Away from showbusiness he's a rather serious, unassuming fellow, who prefers home-cooking to dining out, and would rather work in the garden or play with his five-year-old son than dash around the night spots.

He was born in London in 1918 but spent most of his boyhood in Portsmouth, where his father was serving in the Royal Navy. After studying at the Central School of Drama in London he served in the British Army during the Second World War, then began his career in Shakespeare dramas with the Bristol Old Vic and then at the Old Vic in London. Next he tried radio comedy with considerable success. Now films occupy most of his time. He has made 10 in four years, including Nearly a Nasty Accident, Dentist in the Chair, What a Carve-Up, as well as the Carry On series.

CBXT—Saturday Heroes

Sportscasters Glenn Bjarnason and Ernie Afaganis turn the sport spotlight on the final game in the Midget A Hockey Championship of Alberta, with the Calgary Rangers playing the Edmonton Canadians. Producer, Les MacDiarmid.

Country Calendar

Multiple 4-H Clubs. Glen Haas of Hanley, Sask., explains his eight club projects and on film a demonstration is given by the horse club members.

World of Sport

Canadian Dominion Five-Pin Finals. Fred Sgambati reports highlights of the men's and women's singles championship finals from London, Ont.

Heritage

Host George Rich takes viewers on a visit to some of the old historic churches in Halifax and the surrounding areas. Churches visited are St. Matthew's United, the Old Dutch Church, St. George's Anglican and St. John's Anglican Churches in Lunenburg. Photographs and models of some of the churches are also seen.

The Roaring Deep. Fishing off the south coast of Newfoundland. The program shows the men of the dragger fleet—hard, weatherbeaten, toughened by a life of struggle with wind and salt water as they carry on the winter fishing along the Grand Banks, which stretch seaward 300 miles south and east of Newfoundland.

Twentieth Century

The Western Hero. The evolution of the Western and the sagebrush hero, from 1899 to 1963. Stanley Kramer, movie producer, discusses the contribution of the Western to motion picture art. The program includes film glimpses of famous western stars: William S. Hart, Hoot Gibson, Gene Autry, Tom Mix and Roy Rogers. Host is Walter Cronkite.

Citizens' Forum

Big City. Last in a series of five programs about Canadian cities, the chaos caused by their rapid growth and the opportunities created by this same growth for urban living in the future. A crew from Winnipeg visited Halifax, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver filming visual evidence of the disorder and also the beauty to be found in these cities.

Today, The Politics. It always comes back to politics—amalgamation versus metro. But who takes the initiative? Councils cannot cope with the complexity of problems associated with growth but small town mayors often resent giving up their power. Where lies a solution which will provide decent living conditions for all Canadians at home and on the job?

(A pamphlet on this series may be obtained for 25¢ from the Canadian Association for Adult Education, 113 St. George St., Toronto.)

The Nature Of Things

What happens in a car crash—to the car and to its occupants? What causes a crash? Can personality characteristics contribute to car accidents? Canadian writer Rita Greer Allen, who last year sustained a broken neck in a car crash, explores the physics and psychology of car crashes with Dr. John Rich, a psychiatrist with Toronto and Queen's Universities.

Walt Disney

Three Tall Tales. Professor Ludwig von Drake discusses liars and legends and presents three cartoons as examples—Casey at the Bat; Windwagon Smith; and Paul Bunyan.

Ed Sullivan

Ed's guests include pianist Erroll Garner; singer Della Reese; comedian Ben Blue; and musical comedy star Liza Minnelli.

Bonanza

Five Into the Wind. Little Joe and five other people become stranded in the desert when their stage is wrecked and the horses bolt.

Close-Up

Portrait of Lenny. A profile on U.S. comedian Lenny Bruce, classified as the dean of "sick" comedians. He finds humour in such subjects as religion, funeral homes and race relations, presenting monologues, gags, dramatizations and mimicry. The face-to-face interview is conducted by Nat Hentoff, noted writer and close friend of Bruce.

Besides seeing scenes of Bruce on stage, viewers hear comments about the comedian from Malcolm Muggeridge, British drama critic Kenneth Tynan, and New York radio commentator Gene Shepperd.

(The program was originally scheduled for March 31 but was pre-empted by an NHL semi-final game.)

Quest

The Establishment. Excerpts from the English satirical revue which has appeared in Washington and Chicago, and is currently playing to packed houses in New York's Stroller's Club. The Establishment originates from the same group which gave birth to Beyond the Fringe. The performers in the revue are John Bird, Carol Simpson, Eleanor Bron, John Fortune and Jeremy Geidt.

CBXT—Thriller

Parasite Mansion. A young woman's trip to New Orleans is drastically interrupted when she is kidnapped by a family of backwoods settlers.

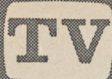

The Roaring Deep Along the Grand Banks

SOME OF THE worst punishment the sea has to offer is meted out along Newfoundland's Grand Banks during the wild hurricanes and gales of fall and winter. The first hint of frost sends other fleets scurrying from this fierce, storm-ripped Atlantic area stretching 300 miles south and east of Newfoundland. But the Newfie dragger fleet of tough, snub-nosed trawlers and weatherbeaten seamen who have lived close to sea-drenched danger all their lives, prefer to press on through the savage, fish-rich waters to mine for Grand Banks gold the year round.

These men would be lost away from the challenge of the sea, even when the snow blinds them, their bodies are stiff with cold, and their ships groan under their weight of ice. Not long ago, when the worst gale in three years hit the dragger fleet, they weathered it as their forefathers had been doing there for centuries, and thought little of it.

For a CBC Television crew on board one of the trawlers to film a program for the 20/20 series, (Please turn to page 19)

Comedy in Four-Letter Words

CBXT—How To Marry A Millionaire

Determined to marry rich men, the three girls crash society in the guise of European aristocracy.

CBXT—Ladies First

1. Representatives from the Milk Foundation provide more helpful information on nutrition.
2. New hair fashions are demonstrated.

Scarlett Hill

Room To Let. Beginning today, a new format is presented on Scarlett Hill. Instead of each episode running for five days only, the show will work on a more flexible, continuing basis. The new series is set in a boarding house where the various boarders assume major or minor roles as the show goes on.

Today, Janice Turner, a young girl from the city, comes to live at Kate Russell's rooming-house.

CBWT—Ladies First

A close look at Royal Doulton China.

Razzle Dazzle

1. Howard salutes station CKNX-TV in Wingham, Ont.
2. The Razzle Dazzle Dancers take a spring visit to a sidewalk cafe in Paris.
3. Nutty Newsreel, Comment, Kooky Commercials, Terrible Ten, Telequiz.

CBXT—Kerry Wood Storybook

Alberta naturalist and folklore expert, Kerry Wood tells a wonderful story about The Badlands. Producer, Don McRae.

CBXT—Gateway

1. Space. Ian McLennan of the Queen Elizabeth Planetarium in Edmonton talks about the progress being made in space exploration.
2. Special guest is Dr. Brock Chisholm, former director of World Health Organization of the U.N.
3. Don Drysdale and teammates of the Los Angeles Dodgers describe and demonstrate the basic fundamentals of baseball.

CBWT—Spotlight

First in a series on Skin and Scuba Diving with Pat Daggitt, chairman of public relations for the Manitoba Underwater Council. Today: free swimming requirements; artificial respiration; equipment required.

CBXT—Sports Page

1. Strikes to Spare. A seven-game series on five-pin bowling. Today, Ann Tischer and Ron Peters compete.
2. Third in a series demonstrating exercises to get in shape for golf, with Ernie Afaganis.
3. Filmed highlights of a colourful auto racing flagman in action at the race track. Producer, Dave Smiley.

Don Messer's Jubilee

Music and song from Halifax with Don Messer and his Islanders, Marg Osburne, Charlie Chamberlain, the Buchta Dancers and guests.

This week's guest is folk-singer Fred McKenna of Marysville, N.S. Numbers include:

The Golden Vanity	Fred
An English Country Garden	Marg
Mountains of Mourne	Charlie
Fireball Mail	Vic Mullen
London Hornpipe	Islanders

Danny Thomas

The Homecoming. Danny and Kathy return from their European vacation but the excitement of the occasion is dimmed for the Halpers when they realize they must make major readjustments in moving back to their own apartment.

Festival

Othello. Grand opera by Giuseppe Verdi, libretto by Arrigo Boito. English version by Eric Crozier. Produced and directed by Franz Kraemer. Musical director is Ernesto Barbini, conducting full orchestra and 54-voice chorus. Sets by Trevor Williams. Costumes by Suzanne Mess.

The story, based on Shakespeare's play, is the tragedy of Othello, the Moore of Venice, whose destruction is brought about by the machinations of the evil Iago, playing upon Othello's jealous love for his wife, Desdemona.

Starring tenor Richard Cassilly as Othello; soprano Ilona Kombrink as Desdemona; and baritone Louis Quilico as Iago. Others in cast: John McCollum as Cassio; Nasco Petroff as Rodrigo; Jan Rubes as Lodovico; Elsie Sawchuk as Emilia; and William Copeland as Herald.

CBWT—Surfside 6

Anniversary Special. Dave Thorne trips up a disc jockey who tries to use murder as a springboard to fame.

LENNIE BRUCE, the U.S. comedian who has been said to epitomize today's "sick humour," once wrote a book entitled How to Talk Dirty and Influence People. It purported to be his autobiography; to many, its title summed up all they wanted to know about the man, for it was a surprisingly candid admission of one of Bruce's most-difficult-to-accept traits.

His racy, uninhibited language in his on-stage appearances has landed him in trouble with authorities in such widely separated parts of the world as Chicago, San Francisco, and Sydney, Australia. One Australian newspaper stated that "Sydney has never seen a public performance of such blasphemy and obscenity," and his engagement there was cancelled after the first performance. During an appearance in England last year, Bruce was castigated by critic Kenneth Allsop and some others as being foul-mouthed, sick-minded and unfunny. But other critics, among them Kenneth Tynan and Alan O'Brien, hailed the comedian as an honest and unfettered spirit, and they were not alone in their defense of Bruce's type of free-wheeling humour. Professor John Logan, of the Catholic University of Notre Dame, writing in a Chicago newspaper, stated: "I find him a brilliant and inventive moralist in the great tradition of comic satire — Aristophanes, Chaucer, Joyce. If his use of four-letter words constitutes obscenity, then those satirists were also obscene."

Among the newer comedians in the United States, Bruce is generally regarded as the "farthest out" and the most truly avant-garde. He is a monologue comedian, working without props or sets, and his performance has been described by Nathan Cohen of the Toronto Star as "a rambling, free-association torrent of comments about politicians, political assumptions, and the taboos of society, (Please turn to page 21)

CBC

Sportscaster

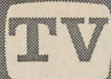

BY THE TIME this column reaches print, all 20 major league baseball teams will be off and running in the chase for either an American or National League pennant. And during the next 5½ months CBC Television viewers will be able to follow the fortunes of their favourite clubs on the Baseball Game of the Week telecast, on Saturday afternoons.

This Saturday a National League contest features the Philadelphia Phillies and the St. Louis Cardinals. While neither of these teams is favoured for the National League pennant by the gents who determine the odds, my bit of crystal gazing indicates that both will be involved in the thick of the pennant battle. And I haven't been hit in the head by a stray foul ball.

Last year, St. Louis finished sixth and Philadelphia seventh, two marks that both clubs should definitely improve upon. The Cardinals over the winter have added Dick Groat from Pittsburgh and George Altman from Chicago to the roster and their respective baseball playing abilities should provide experience and a steadying influence to the infield, plus some long-ball power from the outfield. If Stan Musial has one more good season, and the pitching staff jells, the Cardinals could make things very interesting.

Philadelphia might just be the dark horse entry in the National League pennant derby. The Phillies moved out of the doldrums last season, and while the odds are long, might just click this time around.

The week-end television schedule also includes championship bowling at the O'Connor Bowl in Toronto where the dominion junior five pin championships will be rolled off. And on Sunday, CBC Television camera's will be covering the Canadian Five-Pin Championships.

Program Notes

APRIL 24

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and addit'l program information

CBXT—Ladies First

1. Chef Cassagrande presents another demonstration on cooking.
2. Helen Bentley continues her feature on sewing for the summer.

Scarlett Hill

Room To Let. Continuation of the episode portraying life in a boarding house. Today, David Black arrives from the city to visit Janice, and the rest of the roomers are left to wonder what is going on.

CBWT—Ladies First

1. Dorothy Batcheller offers some pertinent information on consumer products.
2. Gerdine Crawford gives some more hints on sewing.

Razzle Dazzle

1. Special guest, Slim McClory, master of rope tricks and juggler, visits the show and he and Al decide to take a few boxing lessons from Ace Baker.
2. Howard I. Threadneedle reads poetry.
3. Kooky Commercials, Comment, Nutty Newsreel, Terrible Ten, Telequiz, Playalong.

CBXT—Gateway

1. Farm Focus. Special guest is Dr. Glen Purnell, director of the farm economics branch of the Alberta department of agriculture.
2. Don Drysdale and teammates of the Los Angeles Dodgers describe and demonstrate the basic fundamentals of baseball. Producer is David Smiley.

CBWT—Warren's Corner

Four students from St. John's High School visit Warren's Corner today and show some of the projects they presented at the Science Fair held recently in Winnipeg. They are accompanied by their science teacher, Cecil Muldew, who shows some of their experiments with plants and insects. Producer, A. P. H. Scott.

CBWT—Spotlight

Third in a series on boats and water safety while boating. Today, Maurice Burchell talks with Jim Eberts on buying the motor for your boat.

Also, the third in a series on Skin and Scuba Diving with Pat Daggitt. Today, equipment for scuba diving and entry into water.

CBXT—Reach for the Top

Fort Saskatchewan and Horse Hill High Schools compete with St. Albert

High School. Host is Colin MacLean. Producer, Armand Baril.

Mr. Fix-It

Host Peter Whittall and announcer Rex Loring put the finishing touches on the house trailer.

Parade

The Neighbours. Starring Jack Duffy, with Paul Kligman, Sylvia Lennick, Larry Mann, Toby Tarnow and host Bill Walker. A musical show about a man who moves into a new suburban neighbourhood, and is immediately beset by some neighbours who decide they will help him move in.

Intertel

One More River. A report on the mood of the American South nine years after the U.S. Supreme Court ordered integration with all deliberate speed. The object of the program is to communicate some sense of the real meaning of integration, through the minds and emotions of the people directly involved.

Some of these people are: Calvin Craig, Grand Dragon of the Klu Klux Klan of Georgia; Mrs. Patricia Shelby, a white Southern mother; Rev. Wyatt Walker, a northern-born, college-educated Negro; Mrs. Charles Jones, a professor of English; Wally Butterworth, a white Southern broadcaster; and Malcolm X, a Negro segregationist.

Integration is but one facet of the Negroes' struggle for equality, and the program looks at their situation from social, economic, educational and cultural points of view. Produced by Douglas Leiterman; directed by Douglas Leiterman and Beryl Fox; and filmed by Allan King Associated.

Explorations

Antigonish International. Part 1. A visit to the Little Campus of the World in Antigonish, N.S., to see how the adult education program operates, and see the benefit of its application in Maritime communities.

CBWT—Time Out For Music

A relaxing half-hour of music and song with popular vocalist Doug Crosby, the Playmates Quintet and the Mitch Parks Combo. Producer, Neil Andrews.

CBWT—All-Star Golf

Don Fairfield plays Art Wall.

Intertel: Report from the Still-Divided SOUTH

A REPORT ON the mood of the "deep south" states of America, where racial segregation has been an accepted way of life for hundreds of years and where integration is now making slow progress, will be presented in a special CBC-TV program entitled One More River, to be seen on Wednesday, April 24. The hour-long program has been produced by the CBC as a contribution to Intertel, the International Television Federation pledged to the promotion of wider understanding of world affairs and problems through the use of television. It will be CBC's third contribution to the Intertel series.

One More River includes interviews with Negroes and whites in different parts of the southern United States—South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi—and also features actuality films of some of the

APRIL 25

See also page 4 of next week's issue for possible changes in these notes and addit'l program information

CBXT—How To Marry A Millionaire

Attempting to catch a bird-watching millionaire, the three girls intend to turn their apartment into an aviary.

National School Telecasts

Patterns of Living — The New Generation. Shows methods of propagation used by the most primitive animals, amoeba, that merely divide in half. Step by step evolution by the two-parent system is explained. Narrator is Dr. Ian McTaggart Cowan, head of the department of zoology at the University of British Columbia.

Scarlett Hill

Room To Let. The episode begun this week about life in a boarding house continues. Today, the spotlight of mystery turns off Janice when the mysterious and very versatile Walter Pendleton takes a room.

Ladies First

1. Today's guest is Miss Sylvia Demery, who conducts a school of music, speech, drama and dance drama in England, and who is doing a cross-country tour sponsored by Children's Theatres.

2. Mat Gauer adds a French touch to the program as she prepares onion soup and croutons "par excellence."

Razzle Dazzle

1. Bimbo decides to open a toy shop but he has no store and only a few toys. Michele gives him a toy lion and a toy elephant and he soon finds out they are no ordinary toys.

2. Mendel Meek tells about the time he was a famous bridge builder.

3. Nutty Newsreel, Comment, Kooky Commercials, Terrible Ten, Playalong.

Scarlet Pimpernel

The new French ambassador to England tries to create an international incident.

CBWT—Stop, Look and Listen

This week Charlemagne and Henrietta begin to worry about the excess weight they have put on over the winter. The steps they take to reduce prove to be quite unusual.

Outdoors With Per Holting. In the third of his series, Per Holting visits a riding academy and viewers see some young horsemen receiving riding lessons. Producer, Don Browne-Wilkinson.

CBWT—Spotlight

The fourth in the series on Skin and Scuba Diving with Pat Daggitt. Today: clearing of mouth piece; scuba gear—clearing of mask at bottom of pool; taking off the gear at the bottom of pool and putting it back on at the bottom of pool; buddy breathing.

CBXT—Dobie Gillis

Dobie's father is stampeded into helping out in a parent's amateur charity show and stops the show with his soft-shoe-shuffle routine.

CBXT—West on Five

The new-look western musical show featuring Edmonton's finest western music talent. Regulars are host "Old Dad" Taylor; guitarist Frank Gaye; vocalist Maureen Whitley; and folk singer and western story teller, Bob Adamsons. Producer, William Burley.

Playdate

Playdate Presents the Jo Stafford Show. The show's theme is the "age of chivalry" and Jo Stafford's special guest is actor Peter Lawford. Featured are two popular British comedians, Benny Hill and Ken Connor. Songs include:

Drink to Me Only
Thou Swell
When Knighthood Was in Flower
Friendship
Greensleeves

CBXT—Alfred Hitchcock

An Out for Oscar. A bumbling bank teller marries a scheming woman in Las Vegas and later finds out she is a handicap to his respectable banking career.

THE ROARING DEEP

however, it was a harrowing experience. The film footage they captured, in spite of the wild tossing of the ship and the threat of being crushed by heavy gear thrown about by the heaving seas, provides a thrilling account of trawler life. Titled The Roaring Deep, it will be seen Sunday afternoon, April 21. The script is by Newfoundland writer Harold Horwood.

The CBC crew had its share of Newfoundland thrills even before the sea voyage began. The crew included director Gerry Richardson, cameraman John O'Brien and soundman Bernard Penny. They set out from St. John's in O'Brien's station wagon at noon one day to drive the 274 miles to the town of Fortune, where they were to board the trawler. Before long it began to snow heavily, then to blow. It was a bleak countryside. In one 85-mile stretch they saw only one house. Finally the road was completely obliterated by driven snow, and the crew had no idea whether they were driving on the road or through fields. Richardson says they wouldn't have reached Fortune if the station wagon hadn't been loaded down with 600 pounds of gear, which gave it the traction it needed.

The TV crew were thrown about constantly by the heaving ship—and had multiple bruises to prove it. Richardson had had some experience with rough seas in the navy, so he says he fared a little better than the others. Holding a camera steadily enough to film the action was a real achievement.

During one violent blow some gear in the bow shifted suddenly and huge cables threatened to mow down the film crew. They leaped to safety in the nick of time. Richardson says the fishermen were highly co-operative in making the film, and seemed to get a kick out of participating in something so far off the beaten path.

The film commentary is spoken partly by announcer Harry Mannis and partly by Captain Frank Thornhill of Grand Bank, who has spent 43 years on trawlers, and who compares modern fishing methods with those of the old days. In the film, trawlermen—not on Captain Thornhill's ship but on the one which carried the film crew—are seen at work in all sorts of weather. Richardson says the weather turned very bitter during the voyage and by the time the ship returned to Fortune the ice on her upper deck was four inches thick. The fishermen accepted that as part of the expected struggle they wage daily with the vicious forces of the roaring deep.

especially our hypocritical attitudes on sexual matters . . . He is—depending on how you respond to him—a practitioner of shock tactics, or the scourge of moral fakes and social frauds.”

Bruce has made occasional radio and television appearances, and has made some recordings, but it is on the night-club circuit that he has gained the most attention. He has been a sensation in some cities, a ghastly flop in others, as audiences react to him either with rapture or livid loathing. In San Francisco, columnist Herb Caen lauded him as a stinging and refreshing critic of sacred cows; in New York, Gene Knight of the Journal American was so outraged that he devoted an entire column

The meteoric rise of an obscure Austrian paperhanger who ruthlessly challenged the freedom of the western world is revealed in Part I of “Biography” on CBWT-TV.

Tommy Ambrose

Tommy's special guests are Broadway musical comedy star Chita Rivera and Ottawa impressionist Rich Little. Miss Rivera sings Something's Coming and Put on a Happy Face. Choreographer is Lee Becker.

CBWT—Biography

Adolf Hitler. Part 1. The story of Hitler told against the time in which he lived and seized control of a nation. It is the story of sadistic ruthlessness, violence and the incredible weakness of a nation that permitted this mad-man to assume the responsibilities for its destiny.

to blistering Bruce, but without mentioning his name till the last line of the column.

On Sunday, April 21, CBC-TV's Close-Up will present Portrait of Lennie, a documentary study of the comedian including an interview between Bruce and New York reporter Nat Hentoff and comments by three critics: Gene Shepherd of New York, and Malcolm Muggeridge and Kenneth Tynan of London.

In writing of Bruce's London appearance last year, Tynan summed up his feelings in these words: “We are dealing with an impromptu prose poet, who trusts his audience so completely that he talks in public no less outrageously than he would talk in private. Hate him or not, he is unique, and must be seen.”

VENTURE:

Life Away

From the Sunny Isles

ON SUNDAY AFTERNOON, April 21, at 5:00 p.m., CBC Radio's Venture offers a simple picture of a complex situation: the plight of the West Indian girl in Canada; a warm, vital young woman who is bewildered by the completely different world she finds herself in when she steps off the plane in Canada. Determined to make a place for herself here, she is thwarted frequently by the complete readjustment she is required to make.

The program has been prepared by John Mackin from interviews recorded by writer Clothye Larssen, a young American Negress now living in Rio de Janeiro, who spent some time in Canada recently when her husband was here on business. She was distressed by the difficulties of some of the West Indian girls she met during her Canadian stay, many of them of good education and cultured background who, because of Canada's immigration rules for West Indians, must work as domestics for a certain period after their arrival. She talked to girls who had settled in Toronto, to some who were adjusting to the two cultures in Quebec, and to others who were trying to find a place for themselves on the prairies. A few of them had been in Canada for some time, others had just arrived and were still dazed by their completely different surroundings.

They talked to Mrs. Larssen about what they expected Canada to be like, what they had been told in the Indies about it, and what they actually found when they got here. One who was a social worker in Jamaica now finds herself in something of the same situation as some of her cases back home. Another, a former high school teacher, finds domestic work hard to adjust to, both physically and socially.

The girls have some interesting observations to make about Canadian society and how it has treated them. They tell how they are coping with the climate here, the differences in food and cooking techniques, the cost of living, and many other aspects of life in Canada. One girl says she had absolutely no conception of what cold was like before she came, but stepping off the plane in a cotton dress in the dead of winter soon put her right.

Another problem the girls face is lack of West Indian boy friends. West Indian men are not allowed into Canada as immigrants except under specific terms.

The girls discuss a possible union of Canada and some of the West Indian islands. And they go into the various reasons why they have decided to stick it out in this country or to return to the sunshine of their homeland. The program is an intimate glimpse of the various blockades encountered in Canada by a color minority group, and how these gay and musical-voiced girls are trying to break them down.

"The program is not a tract for or against integration," points out Leiterman. "Its object is simply to communicate some sense of the real meaning of integration, through the minds and emotions of the people directly involved. It can use the power and impact of filmed actuality to bring the viewer face to face with the problem. It can make him react through his emotions to subjects and situations he has heretofore examined only on the intellectual level, if at all. It can make him understand when a Negro describes integration as 'a warfare waged daily in the heart,' and it can also help him to understand the white southerner who says 'niggers are fine people but it will be centuries before they are ready for equality.'"

It is 100 years since Abraham Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation, freeing Negroes from 250 years of slavery; but the deep south is a region where history is remembered, where passions are intensely felt and easily inflamed. This is the region where integration of the heart has not yet begun. Since 1954, integration has been the law, and it is a fact in all the states of the Union. In the past decade the Negro has made more gains in civil rights than in the previous century. But in a few southern states integration is only a token. School integration has become the symbol of race relations in this decade, and despite general compliance with the Supreme Court order of 1954, only 777 of the 2,839 southern schools practicing segregation had admitted Negro students by 1961; only 10,000 out of 2,800,000 Negro children in the south attend classes with white children.

But in spite of the headlines and the outbursts of violence, integration is essentially a heartening story. Progress, though slow, is substantial, and the amount of violence has been much less than many believed possible in a society where prejudice has been the basis of economic and social life for centuries. Reluctance of both whites and Negroes to integrate is mixed up with the myths of race inferiority and proliferation, and intense fear of violence and social upheaval. Integration of the American Negro has probably been the subject of more news stories, books, plays and films than anything else in serious North American folklore except perhaps the Civil War.

These are some of the people who will be seen and heard expressing their views on One More River: Calvin Craig, Grand Dragon of the Klu Klux Klan of Georgia, who helps organize Christmas baskets for needy Negro families, but is prepared for violence if the Negroes "get out of hand." Mrs.

Patricia Shelby, a white southern mother who has lived all her life among Negroes, likes them, respects them, but will not tolerate having her children attend school with Negro children. Rev. Wyatt Walker, a northern-born, college-educated Negro, who has been jailed six times on charges of lunacy, inciting to riot and disorderly conduct, as the result of walking into a public library in Albany, talking to a public official in a whites-only waiting room, riding a Freedom Bus, and refusing to press charges against a white youth who attacked him. Mrs. Charles Jones, a professor of English, whose son spent 30 days in jail—10 days for each minute he sat at an all-white lunch counter. Wally Butterworth, a white southern broadcaster, who has dedicated himself to the maintenance of white supremacy and "racial purity."

The film report required first-hand filming of actual situations, in the opinion of its producers. To accomplish this, assistant director Beryl Fox went out on a date with a Negro college student in Charlotte, North Carolina, tried to gain admission to a movie theatre and a drive-in restaurant and was refused, as the cameras recorded the event. Miss Fox also went with her cameraman into a segregated restaurant in Atlanta, Georgia, where they filmed an attempted "sit-in" by a Negro clergyman's wife and children.

Miss Fox reported that what annoyed her most about her experience was that "I couldn't associate with people I liked unless they were white. I couldn't be seen in the company of a Negro without the most extreme sort of reaction from whites. When I chatted with James Meredith in front of his dormitory at Ole Miss, white students leaned out of their windows, spitting and calling the most foul language I've ever heard."

"And it's not only the whites who are intolerant," she continued. "One Negro whom I went to visit asked me to come by the back door so the neighbours wouldn't see me. Or maybe, in his private way, it was just getting even."

tape a show for CBC-TV's Quest. It will be seen Sunday night, April 21.

The Establishment is irreverent satire, but witty, intelligent and perceptive. It scoffs at the organization mind and invites the audience to laugh at the spectacle of human beings who have become automatons. The show is not improvised. It's written by the cast and Peter Cook who, with Nicholas Luard, started and owns the Soho club. Cook is one of the creators and performers of Beyond the Fringe, currently running on Broadway and seen by Toronto audiences last fall at the O'Keefe Centre.

The Establishment has a much more pungent bite than Beyond the Fringe. Its jokes are nearly all unfriendly. They're supposed to cause pain but are so well timed that the effect is funny even to those being lampooned. The Establishment sets out to shock—to shock its audience into a fresh awareness of the stupidity of automatically accepted premises.

In gunning for big game they bag their limit. Their trophies of the hunt have included British and American politics and diplomacy, the law, advertising, nuclear defence, immorality, class distinctions, medicine, edgy bureaucracies, officious junior executives, nervous smarties, union bosses, and many others.

John Bird, 25, is a stocky, sandy-haired man who usually appears as the pampered Ego triumphant with an irresistible self-complacency. He was born in Nottingham and educated at King's College, Cambridge, where he directed many theatre productions, including the 1959 Footlights Revue in which Eleanor Bron and Peter Cook made their débuts. He joined the Royal Court Theatre in 1959 as director, wrote and directed a revue called Here is the News, and directed Brecht on Brecht with Lotte Lenya in London. He's an accomplished amateur pianist.

Eleanor Bron, 24, who has an authoritative voice typifying the Emancipated Woman, is a vivacious brunette who studied at Newnham College, Cambridge. She played for the Marlowe Society there, and was one of only three women who ever appeared in a Footlights Revue. She has lived in Paris and London since leaving university, and has worked for the De La Rue Company and the British Council.

John Fortune, 22, who says his roles usually come under the heading of Insecure Ruling Class, was born in Bristol and studied at King's College, Cambridge. He says he spent his university years reading English, acting, directing, and building up a collection of stuffed owls. His hobbies are playing the flute, snooker, and table football.

Jeremy Geidt, 33, who often appears as a sweaty brute or an insensitive rogue, studied at Wellington College and the Old Vic Theatre School, where he later taught for two years. He has had considerable repertory experience, including some time with the Old Vic Company. For five years he was emcee of a BBC-TV series called Caravan. Last Christmas he played Toad in Toad of Toad Hall at the Saville Theatre in London.

Carole Simpson, 22, has a challenging voice ideally suited to satiric song. She has been singing professionally since she was 14—six years with Dick Williams band, and one year with Ray Ellington. Her songs in The Establishment were written by Christopher Logue, with music by Tony Kinsey and Stanley Myers.

Peter Cook, 25, has supplied the information that he was born at St. Chad's Nursing Home for Gentlemen in Torquay. Two years later he was saddened to see the beautiful iron railings outside his home sawed off to be melted down for tanks to ward off the Hun. He reports that he fought a brave, if unspectacular war, and is notable as one of those who saw Mrs. Jean Gatty blown bodily from her bath by a "doodlebug."

Royal Wedding

On CBC-TV and Radio

A ROYAL WEDDING always brings out the London crowds, no matter how inconsiderate the weather. And although Princess Alexandra's wedding in Westminster Abbey on April 24 is officially a private affair, it will have all the pageantry and glamour of a big state occasion, culminating when the married couple drive in a procession in the glass coach built in 1910 for the late King George V.

For its radio and TV audiences the CBC will present two programs highlighting the wedding. On Trans-Canada Matinee this Wednesday, the day of the ceremony, at 2:03, Elizabeth Webb in London will describe various aspects of the event for radio listeners, and the commentators inside and outside the Abbey will include Godfrey Talbot, Audrey Russell and Robert Hudson. Then on Monday, April 29, TV's Take Thirty will present a BBC filmed account of the wedding.

The ceremony will be performed by the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsay, and the Queen and Prince Philip will be among the special guests. Princess Anne will be one of the five bridesmaids. There'll be two pages. Princess Alexandra will be given away by her elder brother, the Duke of Kent, who is flying home for the occasion from Hong Kong, where he is serving with the Royal Scots Greys. Details of the wedding gown are a secret, but the designer, John Cavanagh, has said that it will be "something long, white, elegant and very simple." More than 2,000 guests have been invited to the wedding. The reception will be held at St. James Palace. After the honeymoon the couple will live at Thatched House Lodge in Richmond Park, just outside London, which was once the home of Britain's great statesman, Sir Robert Walpole.

The bridegroom, Mr. Angus Ogilvy of Airlie, 34, is an old Etonian and the second son of the Earl of Airlie. His family home is in Scotland, at Airlie Castle. One of his ancestors was on the side of Bonnie Prince Charlie in the ill-fated Jacobian rebellion of 1745. Mr. Ogilvy earns his living as a businessman in the city of London, and is a director of more than 50 companies. An old school friend of his, Peregrine Fairfax, who farms in the North of England, will be best man.

Princess Alexandra, 26 has been to Canada on two occasions: in 1954 with her mother, and again, briefly, in 1962. She is Colonel-in-Chief of the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada. She has been described as a real 20th-century princess, who is always trying to break down the formal restraints of protocol. She enjoys doing the twist, buys many of her clothes off the rack, and on a recent tour of the Far East insisted on seeing Hong Kong from the top of a street car. After her marriage she'll be known as Princess Alexandra, Mrs. Angus Ogilvy.

Thelma Brown tells what it is like to be very poor in Jamaica, and recalls the first problem she faced on arriving here. Lola Valentine describes the "processing" she went through before coming to Canada. Pearl Haynes discusses the problems of an immigrant with no educational advantages, and the differences between life in Toronto and in Montreal.

Phyllis Hyland describes her first sight of snow, how much she enjoys life in Edmonton, and tells how she peeps up her Canadian diet, which seems too bland to most West Indians. Violet Purser sums up a Canadian winter, and talks about her cooking problems. Madge McCarthy and Oliver Welch describe their experiences in looking for jobs in Canada.

Also heard from are Violet King, the first Negress to be admitted to the Canadian bar, who has taken a deep interest in the problems of West Indian girls; Donald Moore, a West Indian who has lived in Canada for 42 years; Sir Grantly Adams, Prime Minister of Trinidad; George Lamming, the West Indies' most prominent author, whose novel, My Skin Is My Castle, is a best-seller; and Mervin Kae-sar, president of the West Indian student federation.

ing out his scheme, Iago is unwittingly aided by his wife, Emilia, who is the chief lady-in-waiting to Desdemona.

Othello is gradually consumed by jealousy, and in a climactic scene in the third act he publicly rejects Desdemona. Act four is set in the palace bed-chamber where, maddened to the point of insanity, Othello murders his innocent wife, then, filled with remorse, kills himself.

When he began work on Othello, Verdi was in his 74th year and was in virtual retirement. His great successes of earlier years — Rigoletto, Il Trovatore, La Traviata, Simon Boccanegra, La Forza del Destino and Don Carlo, among others — had made him wealthy, and for more than a decade his interest had been concentrated, not on music, but on his farm, his horses and his gardening. But then there came into his life the composer and librettist Arrigo Boito, whose enthusiasm inspired Verdi to return to composition and create his two final operatic masterpieces, Othello and Falstaff, both based on Shakespearean plays. Boito, the only literary man of the first rank with whom Verdi ever collaborated, produced a masterly libretto for Othello, and Verdi could not resist the desire to set it to music. The resulting score is one of the most remarkable in all operatic music, not only because of its clear delineation of character, but because its dramatic intensity, youthful passion and virility are the work of a man in his 70s.

Othello was given its première at La Scala, Milan, in February of 1887, after weeks of intense and arduous rehearsal. Verdi was inclined to be secretive about his new works, and in this case, with the gaze of the world centered on him, he was particularly careful. Visitors were forbidden at the rehearsals, and he reserved the right to withdraw his score, even at the last minute, if he felt that the opera was not going to turn out successfully. But he had little to worry about. His carefully-trained cast performed brilliantly, and the press and public reacted with enthusiasm and admiration.

Verdi's opera, by the way, bears the Italianized title Otello; but since the CBC-TV production is in English, it has been decided that Shakespeare's original spelling of Othello shall be used for the Festival presentation.

Richard Cassilly, who takes the title role in this production, is a tenor soloist with the New York City Centre Opera Company, and has become widely known in Canada through his performances in operatic presentations on CBC Radio and Television, particularly the CBC-TV productions of Britten's Peter Grimes, in which he had the title role, and Strauss' Elektra.

Ilona Kombrink, a leading soprano with the Canadian Opera Company, sang Desdemona in that company's production of Othello in the fall of 1960. She has also sung such major roles as Tosca, Leonora in La Forza del Destino, and the leading role in Menotti's Maria Golovin, in which she made her début with the New York City Centre Opera Company. Winner of Metropolitan Auditions of the Air and Ford Foundation scholarships, she has travelled widely in the United States and Canada, filling operatic and concert engagements. Among the roles she has sung for CBC Television are leading parts in Eugene Onegin, Tosca, Elektra and Falstaff.

Louis Quilico, a Montreal-born baritone who has attained recognition in the leading opera houses of London, Vienna, Paris and Moscow, has for some years been a soloist at the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, London. While his vocal and dramatic abilities leave little to be desired, Quilico's powers of communication outside the theatre may need touching up: Not too long ago, CBC-TV producer Franz Kraemer received a post-card from Quilico, written during the singer's engagement with the Bolshoi Opera in Moscow (for which, by the way, he received great acclaim from Russian audiences and critics). "Now I know another opera you should produce," wrote Quilico. But he neglected to say what it was.

COOK'S TOUR

with Mat Gauer

RECIPES FEATURED ON
"LADIES FIRST" EACH THURSDAY

GLAZED HAM WITH CRANBERRY RAISIN SAUCE

1½ inch slice ham (about 2 lbs.)

½ cup brown sugar

2 tbsp. corn starch

Pinch ground cloves

Pinch salt

½ cup orange juice

1½ cups cranberry juice

½ cup seedless raisins

Slash fat edge of ham at 2" intervals. Insert whole cloves if desired. Place ham in shallow casserole and bake at 325° for 30 mins.

SAUCE

Mix sugar, cornstarch, cloves, salt. Then add remaining ingredients. Cook and stir until mixture thickens and comes to boil. Let simmer 2 or 3 minutes. Remove ham from oven. Spoon some sauce over ham and bake for 20 mins. more or till glazed. Pass remaining sauce with ham.

SCALLOPED POTATOES

4 medium sized raw potatoes

4 tbsp. butter

1 large sliced onion

Salt, paprika, milk and flour

Peel and slice potatoes and onion. Put a layer of potatoes into baking dish then ½ of onion slices. Sprinkle on salt, flour and dot with ⅓ of butter. Continue until all ingredients are used up ending with flour, salt, butter and paprika. Add milk barely to cover. Bake covered at 325° about 1 hour, remove cover and continue baking until brown and potatoes are tender.

Ed Sullivan Show

From Toronto April 28

XAVIER CUGAT, Abbe Lane and Wayne and Shuster are among the stars who have been lined up for The Ed Sullivan Show live telecast from Toronto's O'Keefe Centre. The program is scheduled for Sunday, April 28.

Also appearing on the show, the first Sullivan telecast to be produced live outside the United States, will be Metropolitan Opera tenor Jan Peerce, popular singer Connie Francis, and comedian Jack Carter.

An orchestra comprised of Canadian musicians will be conducted by Ray Bloch, a regular of The Ed Sullivan Show.

CBC-TV comedy stars Wayne and Shuster have made many appearances on the Sullivan show, a CBS program usually originating in New York, for the past five seasons.

Their first appearance was in May 1958.

The April 28 telecast also marks the 10th anniversary of the show on the CBC-TV network.

The live telecast will be seen simultaneously on the CBC-TV network and the CBS television network in the United States.

Among the American stars booked for the April 28 telecast, Xavier Cugat and his singer-wife Abbe Lane, also Jack Carter, made stage appearances at the O'Keefe Centre during 1962.
